

Mrs. Rogner's Blogging Expectations

As a member of our classroom community, it will be your responsibility to contribute to our online blog. Please review the rules and expectations for using the blog carefully. In order to earn extra privileges on the blog, you must follow the guidelines below.

1. All blog comments and posts will be written in complete sentences.
2. Sentences will begin with a capital letter and end with a punctuation mark.
3. Proper punctuation, capitalization, spelling, and grammar will be used.
4. Students will avoid using "text message" language on the blog. For example, you may not use terms like "lol" or "j/k."
5. The blog is not to be used for personal communication between classmates. It is an educational space and will be used to discuss ideas as directed by the teacher.
6. Students who misuse the blog will be required to hand in assignments on paper and will lose their blogging privileges.
7. Blog posts must be completed and submitted on time.
8. When responding to other students' work, be kind, polite, and supportive. We will talk more about how to conduct a positive and respectful discussion, both in person and online.
